LB735 would (subject to certain conditions) expressly authorize meetings of community college area boards of governors, governing bodies of public power districts and governing bodies of public power and irrigation districts to be held by means of videoconferencing or teleconferencing. In the event related governing bodies were to hold meetings by such authorized means, the related political subdivisions may incur related telecommunications expenses and other costs associated with conditions to be met in order to hold videoconference or teleconference meetings. On the other hand, videoconference or teleconference meetings may result in reduction of certain expenses (e.g. mileage expense related to travel by governing body members). Related impacts upon political subdivision expenditures would depend upon the extent to which affected governing bodies would elect to hold meetings by means of videoconferencing and teleconferencing. As such, related impacts are indeterminate.
